HIST355: Sports, Games and Spectacles in the Graeco-Roman World
Fall Semester 2018
Course Instructor: Dr. John Karavas

Course Description
The aim of this course will be to explore the emergence and subsequent development of both athletic competitions and sports-based games and spectacles from the Bronze age through to the period of late antiquity. Within this wider spatial and temporal context, the course will subsequently focus on two separate thematic entities: Ancient Greek Athletics, with particular attention to the development and evolution of the main Ancient Greek athletic events over the ages, as well as an in-depth investigation of the particularities of Roman public spectacles and gladiatorial games. Drawing on a variety of disciplines and available (primary) sources, from history and archaeology to modern sports studies, the course will primarily seek to examine the main purpose and function of these games and spectacles within the wider social, political, religious, cultural and intellectual context of the times, as well as their overall significance in the daily lives of the ancients. In addition to in-class lectures and discussions, the course will also include a substantial on-site teaching component, with field trips to archaeological sites and museums of athletic significance (such as Olympia, Isthmia, Nemea, Delphi and Messene) where sessions will center on the interpretation of the physical evidence.

Course Requirements
Assignments:
Students will be expected to write one research paper, not more than 2,500 words, on subjects/topics relevant to this course. Details will be provided on the first day of classes. Assignments for topics will be decided by lot, one month before the deadline for the submission of essays. Papers must be properly documented and should include an appended bibliography. Credit will be given for originality, i.e. illustrations, maps etc, personal observation and evidence of independent reading-research. Unless otherwise specified, all submitted work must be your own, original work. Any excerpts from the work of others must be clearly identified as a quotation, and a proper citation provided. (Check Student handbook, pg 9).
The deadline for the submission of the final essay is Thursday, December 20. No extensions will be granted.
Exams:
Midterm: Thursday, October 18
Final: TBA

Class Attendance - Absences
Student attendance is mandatory. All absences must be excused by the administration and not the instructor. Each unexcused absence will result in a lowered participation grade.

Grading and Evaluation
The mid-term grade will be calculated on the basis of the mid-term exam (70%) and with regard to student’s attendance of and participation in classes (30%). The final grade will be an average of the grades assigned for the mid term-exam (25%), the final essay (25%), the grade assigned for the final exam (35%) and of that assigned for class participation and attendance over the course of the semester (15%).

Books, Course Materials, Moodle
The standard prescribed textbooks for this class include:

D. Kyle, Sport and Spectacle in the Ancient world (2006).
S.G Miller, Ancient Greek Athletics (2004).

In addition to the above, further background or specialist reading material will be introduced to students at the beginning of each separate thematic entity.
